Articles of Incorporation:

Purpose: What is the project/business to be undertaken by the Corporation? _____

Projected date the Corporation will commence to transact business? _____

Incorporator: The attorney with whom you are working at Durrell Law Group generally serves as the incorporator of the Corporation to avoid a delay in filing the Articles with the State. Would you prefer that someone else serve as the incorporator? _____ (yes or no) If yes, provide the name and address:

_____
_____

Classes of Stock: A corporation generally will have only one class of stock, referred to as common stock. In limited cases two or more classes of stock, referred to as common and preferred, are appropriate. If you would like to consider having more than one class of stock, discuss the matter with the attorney with whom you are working. For the purposes of the following questions, we assume the corporation will have only one class of stock.

Authorized Shares: Do you desire any specific number of authorized shares: _____
Yes No

If yes, how many shares would you like to be authorized? _____

Preemptive Rights: Alaska law generally provides that each shareholder has the right to purchase a number of additional shares of stock to be sold by the Corporation sufficient to maintain the shareholder's percentage ownership of stock. This right is referred to as a preemptive right. The shareholders will have preemptive rights unless they are denied in the Articles of Incorporation.

Should the corporation deny preemptive rights? _____
Yes No

Cumulative Voting: Alaska law generally provides that each shareholder has the right to cumulate the number of votes the shareholder has in a director election. For instance, a shareholder with 100 shares in voting for a board of three directors could cumulatively vote 300 shares for any one of the open board seats. Cumulative voting makes it easier for a minority shareholder to have a voice on the board of directors. The shareholders will have cumulative voting rights unless they are denied in the Articles of Incorporation.

Should the corporation deny cumulative voting? _____

Yes

No

Board of Directors:

Every corporation must have a board of directors. A corporation must have a minimum of one director.
